Novant Health Forsyth Medical Center

Novant Health Forsyth Medical Center is an 859-bed hospital offering a wide range of services in emergency, medical, surgery, neurology, critical care, oncology, women's health and wellness and behavioral health. Centers of excellence include the Maya Angelou Women's Health and Wellness Center, Heart and Vascular Institute, Derrick L. Davis Cancer Center, Stroke and Neurosciences Center, Orthopedic Center and Behavioral Health.

History

Novant Health Forsyth Medical Center was founded in 1887 as a 10-bed hospital inside a private home. Episcopal minister Henry O. Lacy worked with the Ladies Twin City Association and other volunteers to raise money for the hospital to address the community's growing need for healthcare. The Twin City Hospital existed in several different locations until 1959 when voters approved purchase of a 77-acre campus that is Novant Health Forsyth Medical Center's current home.

Novant Health Mint Hill Medical Center

Novant Health Mint Hill Medical Center is a 36-bed community hospital offering a wide range of services in women's health, emergency care, imaging, outpatient services and more. The hospital has 24 medical-surgical beds, eight labor/delivery/recovery/postpartum (LDRP) beds, four intensive care unit beds, 10 observation beds and a 16-bay emergency department.

History

Novant Health Mint Hill Medical Center was awarded a certificate of need from the state in 2007. The project was put on hold for several years, and construction officially began in September 2016. The topping-out ceremony, where the last beam is placed for the hospital, was held in April 2017. Mint Hill Medical Center officially opened its doors in October 2018 as a 145,000-square-foot, 36-bed community hospital with an attached 67,000-square-foot physicians' plaza. In November 2016, Mint Hill Medical Office Building opened on the 80-acre campus offering primary, pediatric, orthopedic and ob-gyn services. In 2017, urgent care services were added.
