History

Since opening its doors in August 1994 with 102 beds, Novant Health Matthews Medical Center has expanded numerous times to keep up with the population growth of eastern Mecklenburg County and adjacent Union County. In 2013, Matthews Medical Center opened a fifth-floor vertical expansion with 23 inpatient rooms, nine observation rooms and three hospice beds. In early 2015, Novant Health Matthews Medical Center completed a renovation of its existing maternity rooms. The renovated rooms feature a guest sleep bed, Jacuzzi, shower, hair dryer and more. In August 2016, the hospital opened a 26,000-square-foot Women’s Center, adding 10 new labor, delivery, recovery and postpartum suites. Additional features include a special care neonatal nursery, women’s boutique, community classroom space, lactation suite, triage rooms and an expanded level II neonatal intensive care unit. The expansion increased the Women’s Center to approximately 49,000-square-feet with a total of 33 labor, delivery, recovery and postpartum rooms. In 2021, Matthews Medical Center announced a $169 million bed tower expansion that will add 150,000 square feet, 20 new beds and support future campus expansions of up to 100 new beds. All construction is planned to be completed by the summer of 2025.
