History

New Hanover Regional Medical Center opened in 1967 as New Hanover Memorial Hospital. It marked a civil rights achievement for Wilmington, replacing separated, segregated hospitals. The hospital has since grown into a major medical center serving the entire Southeastern North Carolina region. New Hanover Regional Medical Center joined Novant Health in 2021.

In 2022, New Hanover Regional Medical Center was verified as a level II trauma center by the American College of Surgeons. While New Hanover Regional Medical Center has had a level II trauma designation from the North Carolina Office of Emergency Medical Services (NCOEMS) since 1989, this additional verification achievement recognizes the trauma center's continued dedication to provide optimal care for injured patients.
