History

While a pediatric unit had been in place at Novant Health Presbyterian Medical Center since the 1950s, Torrence and Hilda Hemby had a vision to see a hospital dedicated solely to the needs of children. Novant Health Hemby Children’s Hospital opened at Presbyterian Medical Center in Charlotte in 1995 as a specialized facility for children from birth to age 17. It now encompasses a 38-bed general pediatric unit, an eight-bed pediatric intensive care unit, a 38-bed Level IV neonatal intensive care unit, a 15-bed pediatric behavioral health unit and a 14-bed 24/7 pediatric emergency department. All units are staffed with child life specialists.

In fall of 2015, Hemby Children’s Hospital unveiled its new, all-private eight bed pediatric intensive care (PICU) unit with two dedicated procedure rooms. The PICU is equipped with advanced technology and designed to ensure family privacy and accommodating overnight visitors comfortably. In addition to a multidisciplinary team that includes intensivists and specially trained nurses, the PICU is staffed by child life specialists who address the emotional, developmental and cultural needs of each child and family.
